Optimizing the employee experience plays a large role in business today. Doing so is critical to attracting and retaining talent, and therefore to success.

DXC and Qualtrics help companies elevate the employee experience by:

- Harnessing experience, operational and technology data to monitor the workplace and measure employee sentiment
- Driving continuous improvement through real-time employee insights and intelligence
- Delivering next-level workplace experiences

Collaborative solution

DXC integrates Qualtrics EmployeeXM™ into our Modern Workplace solutions to help companies increase collaboration, productivity and engagement — and attract talent in a competitive hiring environment.

DXC captures experience data from Qualtrics' EmployeeXM and integrates it with our Modern Workplace operational and technology data. We gather data from all our workplace services, including device management, support services and collaboration tools.

DXC's innovative Experience Cube technology uses our experience, operational and technology data sets to provide customers with valuable, real-time insights and intelligence about employee sentiment. By continuously gathering employee feedback, our solution drives continuous improvement.

Today, it's critical that workers enjoy a great employee experience. That's key to creating an engaged staff — excited about their jobs and eager to build a stronger business.

DXC data shows a 20% increase in productivity for engaged employees.
